Rin Oliver

Content & Production Expert

+1 318 484 8815 | ck@ckoliver.com | LinkedIn | Website

PO Box 413 Colfax, LA 71417 | Relocating to Austin, TX in 2020

Skills

Production | Host training; Host prepping; Organization; Shownotes; Sound QA; AV Support; Livestream support; Sponsor collaboration; Press

Journalism | Storytelling; Copywriting; Research & investigation; Newsletters

Content Management | Editorial; Planning & prioritization; Strategy; Project & pipeline management; Leadership & management; Training; SEO; Social Media

Evangelism | Public speaking; Publishing; Community engagement & outreach; Volunteering; Event management, production and planning; Public relations

Experience

Armory.io | Journalist - Technology

CURRENT (Freelance), Remote, USA

Fixate.io | Journalist - Technology

CURRENT (Freelance), Remote, USA

GitLab Inc. | Digital Media Producer

JAN 2020 - MAY 2020 Remote, USA

The New Stack | Producer

AUG 2015 - OCT 2019, Remote, USA

Education & Certifications

Southern New Hampshire University | Bachelor of Arts (BA), Communications, with focus on Public Relations & Advertising 2013 - 2016. Manchester, NH

Cape Cod Community College | Public Relations, Advertising, and Applied Communication

2012 - 2013, Barnstable, MA

Udemy | Final Cut Pro X Certification

2020, Remote, USA

Interests & Hobbies

Rin is an ambitious, neurodivergent wordsmith who likes helping people, telling meaningful stories, and learning new things. Rin loves working on home DIY/tech projects and enjoys attending meetups and going to makerspaces to get inspiration for new things to create, and has recently opened a small, family-owned candle making business.

In Rin's spare time they enjoy playing ukulele, cooking and teaching others how to cook, playing their Nintendo Switch, and advocating for neurodiversity and transgender rights. As a self proclaimed ambivert, Rin enjoys traveling, has given talks and workshops in three different countries, and spent four years living in New Zealand with their wife.